Lecture Description:

Kerry Robinson will speak about concrete efforts of recovery and reform by Catholic leaders (ordained, religious and lay) from myriad sectors and industries in response to the twin crises of sexual abuse and leadership failures facing the Church. Predicated on exemplary stewardship of the Church's often underutilized resources (the expertise of laity and the leadership and decision-making of women), action is being taken toward a new culture of accountability, transparency and co-responsibility. With faith in the Church's potential and our collective responsibility to call the Church to greater levels of integrity, Kerry will address the difficult challenges facing the Church and invite a discussion on a hope-filled path forward.
