

Stand
for Justice

Friday

Aug 28

7:00 - 8:30p

25 Boulevard
NE

Commemoration of the March on Washington

On August 28, 1963, 250,000 peaceful demonstrators gathered and heard Martin Luther King Jr. deliver his "I Have a Dream" speech. His call for action to fight racism, injustice, and inequality continues today. Please join our demonstration as we stand (at a safe distance) along Boulevard.

Sign up today as space will be limited. Additional details will be provided.

"Let's Catch Up, White People"

3-Week Zoom Workshop

TESTIMONIALS

"I'm putting my inner house in order. And uncovering what is mine to do."

"Facilitators ensure challenging, respectful conversations."

If people of color could have eliminated racism on their own, they would have. What's your part to play? Challenging exercises lead to insight and action.

OUTCOMES

- See ways to start and stay in conversations about race
- Begin to look at 'what is mine to do'

TOPICS

- How to honor your values and move the needle on racism
- How to manage shutting down, defensiveness, and certitude
- New neuroscience reveals ways to outmaneuver old beliefs
- What it means to follow the leadership of people of color

WHAT'S NOT COVERED

- No debating current events
- No convincing others of your point of view
- No long presentations

WHAT MAKES THIS WORKSHOP UNIQUE

- NOT a webinar. An interactive experience with small group breakouts
- Strikes the balance between making internal shifts and taking action
